

NYT 4/5/96 Friday

Peabody Awards to CBS and Oklahoma Stations

CBS News and three Oklahoma City television stations were among the 33 television and radio organizations honored yesterday with a George Foster Peabody Award.

CBS News won for its coverage of the assassination of Prime Minister

Ytzhak Rabin of Israel and the three stations for theirs of the terrorist bombing in Oklahoma City.

The awards, for excellence in broadcast and cable television, are administered by the University of Georgia's Henry W. Grady College of Journalism and Mass Communications.

Other winners included Barbara Walters of ABC News, for her interview with Christopher Reeve; Oprah Winfrey, for her work on talk shows, and PBS, for the documentary "Hoop Dreams." The NBC drama "Homicide" was the only prime-time television series honored.

- Among the other winners:
- "Blind Justice: Who Killed Janie Fray?" WJR Radio, Detroit, an investigative report on an innocent man in prison.
 - "Kevin's Sentence," Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, Toronto, a portrait of the impact of drunken driving.
 - "St. Paul Sunday," Minnesota Public Radio, St. Paul, Minn., a music and entertainment series.
 - Oscar Brand, WNYC, New York, an award for helping preserve folk music.
 - "Wynton Marsalis: Making the Music/Marsalis on Music," National Public Radio, Washington and Sony Classical Film and Video for PBS.
 - "The Peavy Investigation," WFAA-TV, Dallas, investigation of a school board.
 - "Truth on Trial," ABC News "20/20," about false charges of child abuse.
 - "Target Seven: Armed and Angry," WXYZ-TV, Detroit, on the militia movement.
 - "New York City School Corruption," WCBS-TV, New York.
 - "50 Years After the War," Television Broadcasts Ltd., Kowloon, Hong Kong.
 - "The Dying Rooms," a Cinemax Reel Life Presentation of a Lauderdale Production for Channel 4, London, and Cinemax, New York, an investigation of child abuse.
 - "Road Scholar," Public Policy Productions Inc., in association with Thirteen/WNET, New York, presented on PBS, a tour of America with the writer, humorist and commentator Andrei Codrescu.
 - "Rock-and-Roll," WGBH-TV, Boston, and BBC Bristol, a history of the genre.
 - "Peter Jennings Reporting: Hiroshima: Why the Bomb Was Dropped," ABC News.
 - "Yugoslavia: Death of a Nation," a Discovery Journal Special, Discovery Channel, Bethesda, Md., and Brian Lapping Associates for BBC London.
 - "CBS Reports: In the Killing Fields of America," CBS News, on roots of American violence.
 - "Complaints of a Dutiful Daughter," P.O.V./Deborah Hoffman, New York, presented on PBS, a daughter's experience with her mother's Alzheimer's disease.
 - "Hank Aaron: Chasing the Dream," Turner Original Productions, Tollin/Robbins and Mundy Lane in association with Television Production Partners.
 - "The Private Life of Plants," Turner Original Productions and BBC Natural History, London.
 - "Coming Out Under Fire," Deep Focus Productions, Los Angeles, presented on PBS, homosexuals in the military.
 - "Wallace and Gromit," Aardman Animations in association with Wallace & Gromit Ltd., BBC Children's International, BBC Bristol and BBC Lionheart, animation.
 - "Frontline: Waco: The Inside Story," WGBH-TV, Boston.